Mayor's Introduction - 2020

The City of Lawson Missouri was founded in 1871 (plat was filed with the county recorder September 20, 1870 and formally became a city in 1871). In the early days, Lawson was a railroad town, but even before Lawson became an “official” town, there were stores in town to serve the growing community.

Jump ahead 149 years and that is still the case. There are still shops and stores serving the community. No doubt about it, the improved transportation system, high percentage of the local population working outside of town internet shopping has made it much harder on local merchants.

January 2017, the Lawson Board of Aldermen passed a motion to have an updated Comprehensive Plan completed. Collect and record the normal demographics, but also to survey the community and high school students as to how they perceived the City of Lawson. There were a variety of questions asked, to include:

- What do you consider to be the strengths of Lawson?
- What does Lawson need to grow?
- If you could add one thing to do, or change one thing, what would it be?
- How can/should the City do to better support local businesses?
- For students ... how likely are you to settle in Lawson and raise your children here?
- Then a follow-up question on “why?”

There were three versions of the survey developed. One for students, one for business owners/operators and one for community members. Surveys were dropped off at every business in town, as well as made available at City Hall, delivered to the High School and sent out (with a school paper) to each mailing address within the Lawson School District. Surveys were also dropped off at every business in town, as well as made available at City Hall, delivered to the High School and sent out (with a school paper) to each mailing address within the Lawson School District.

Eventually, over 600 surveys were returned. The survey forms were collected, analyzed and recorded by a volunteer group from Lawson:

Amy Kanning
Kelley Uthe
Barbara Sloop

Larry Kanning
Karen Dolt
Val Swearingin

Mike VanWinkle
Roxann Shook

Mary VanWinkle
Darlene Statt

The data was then represented on charts, graphs and by narrative by Dea Craye, Ben Hyde, Collin Jones, Amy Klintworth, and Rhonda Oulman.

Fast forward to earlier in 2019, keeping with our commitment to you the citizens of Lawson, we are updating the comprehensive plan. I appreciate the commitment by the staff at Lawson city hall to keep our comprehensive plan updated.

Thank You!

Census Bureau
 Estimated population as of July 1, 2016 was 2,517.
 Highest population in history of Lawson, MO

Quick Facts...more information to follow.

- The population in Lawson was on an upward trend dating back to 1950, peaking in 2010 at 2,473. There was a slight decline from 2010 to 2015; However the estimated population as of July 1, 2016 was 2,517, which would be the largest population figure since Lawson first became a City in 1870.
- Looking at population charts, while the population continues to trend up, Lawson has lost numbers in the 24-45 age group. In that age group, Lawson's population has decreased by nearly 150 in the last ten years.
- Lawson's population in the 24-45 age group is 23.2% (of total population) compared to the state average of 26.9% and 30.3% national average.
- Between 1996 and 2005, Lawson averaged 9.1 new single-family homes being built per year.
- Between 2006 and 2015, Lawson averaged 0.9 new single-family homes being built per year, a decrease of 75 homes over the previous 10 years.
- As of May 2017 there are 5 homes currently being built, with expectations for 3-4 others by the end of the year.
- According to the 2014 US Census Bureau and American Community Survey, Lawson's median household income was $54,412. The mean (average) household income in Ray County is $52,400, compared to $60,900 in Clay County and $53,600 in Clinton County. (Median household income tends to run lower than the mean when scattered high end incomes averaged in.)
- Lawson School District attendance rate has averaged 95.87%, compared to 92% average for the State of Missouri.
- The drop rate for Lawson HS has averaged 1.36% over the last 10 years, just slightly more than 1 student per year. During this same period, 6.5% of the high school students dropped out statewide.
- Lawson School District was the first to gain an Exemplary Rating in the State of Missouri. Having earned that distinction in 1993, they have maintained that status for the last 24 years.
- In 1883, Lawson built their first multi-room school (located on same property school district still owns at 4th St & Allison)

Comprehensive Plans Dating Back to 1965

The City of Lawson, Missouri constructed a Comprehensive Plan in 1965, followed by an updated version in 1975 and another update in 1989. The information gathered from these documents was immensely helpful in generating the demographic data for the 2017 Comprehensive Plan.

During 1963 to 1966, the Mayor of Lawson was R.R. Coffman. Aldermen during that period of time included:

Bill J. Decker
Maurice Smith

L.D. Estill
J.S. Smith

Dr. D.E. McNeely
Orville E. Yokum

Vernon King

Bill R. Morrow was Chairman of the Planning and Zoning Commission from 1963-1965. Members included:

L.D. Estill
R.R. Coffman

A.W. Jarman
Kenneth Dasset

Edith O'Dell
John Eppenauer

Anabel Smith
J.S. Smith

1963

April 30, 1971

F. Anderson, C. Lockamy,
Mr. Koehler, D. Moberly,
L. Estile, L. Lockamy

During 1975-1976 when the original Comprehensive Plan was first updated, both Jack Monroe and Van F. Bright served as Mayor. Aldermen included:

John Briant

Murle Nolker

Stephen Nolker

Larry Swearingin

Vester Cates

1975 Planning and Zoning Commission members included:

Bruce McCollough (Chairman)

Fern Nolker (Secretary-Treasurer)

Gene Gulley

Helen Green

1975 Advisory Committee & 1989 Comprehensive Plan

In 1975, members of the Citizens Advisory Committee included:

Jim Beaumont	Bryce Bogard	Ina Faye Briant
Vester Cates	Loren Crosky	Hazel Denton
Bob Gill	W.D. McQuerrey	Bill Morrow
Virginia Nolker	B.F. Walker	Anita Swearingin
Norma Bush	Randall Elliott	Gene Neas
Judy Zeikle

From 1986 to 1989, both Kennel Calvert and Gerrie Anderson served as Mayor. Aldermen from that time period included:

Stephen Nolker	Vester Cates	Richard E. Nolker
Clay Carter	Sam Phipps	Lindell Petree
Charlie Lebold	Ross Akers	Larenda Dravenstott

Dennis Baldwin served as Chairperson of the Planning and Zoning Commission during that period of time. Members included:

Tim Vick	Fern Nolker	Fred Evans Jr.
Kennel Calvert	Gerrie Anderson	Steve Nolker
Vester Cates	Clay Carter	Dale Foland
Bill Morrow, Jr.	Larenda Dravenstott

During this time period, both Sheldon Hunter and John Tracy served as City Administrator. Those who served as Mayor, City Aldermen, members of the Planning and Zoning Commission and on the Citizens Advisory Board are mentioned for good reason.

These are the people who volunteered their time and kept the City growing and vibrant. Without THEIR leadership, there might not be a Lawson, Missouri. Certainly, the City would NOT be as developed and progressive as it is today.

Current State of Economic Development in Lawson

Based on 2016 estimates, Lawson's population is 2,473, which is the largest the city has ever been.

Hidden Valley The Villas is a new subdivision that is being built off 184th Street and Salem Road. It will consist of 19 zero maintenance homes.

However, cost of living in Lawson is substantially lower than the surrounding area, indicating that Lawson is an affordable place to live with a lot of opportunities for people to raise a family here.

From 2000 to 2010, Ray County's population decreased from 23,393 to 22,810. However, Lawson's population has gone from 2,351 to 2,473 in the same time frame. Lawson is a city that is growing and there are lots of opportunities for investors.

According to data pulled off the 2015 census, median gross rents in Lawson are $805. Median household income is $41,875 and median family income is $49,918, both lower than the United States averages of $41,994 and $50,046, respectively.

Community Feedback

Everyone was excited to participate in the community survey. They provided us with comments of what they like about Lawson and what they see as community needs. Not every comment was positive, but even those negative were welcomed constructive criticism. See a samples of responses below...

“Everyone should take pride where they live. Clean up town, make us proud of where we live.”

“The community could really use more diversity and different types of restaurants.”

“There are areas in town where we need better drainage for water when it rains.”

“A good town, great place to live and raise children. Good schools! We need more shops and people should shop locally.”

“Be nice if local stores could open longer. Great to see more shops and businesses opening in town!”

“The reason I state that a community center would be great, is not only would it bring in great business to Lawson, but also keep everyone, especially teens, out of trouble.”

“Thanks for moving in the right direction.”

“Very excited about the recent growth in town plus the new housing and fiber coming to town.”

“We need to continue work to fix streets.”

“Survey was a good idea. Thanks for asking our opinions. I hope something comes from our input and you don’t just ignore things people are telling you.”

Lawson Water Department

The City of Lawson was notified by DNR that upgrades to the water and wastewater system would be needed to remain in compliance. These advancements were necessary to meet the upcoming standard requirements of DNR (Department of Natural Resources).

The City looked at several options and received pricing for the upgrades. After discussion, it was determined that water rates would need to be substantially raised if the City kept the water and sewer and contracted the upgrades.

The City requested bids for the sale of the water and sewer. Three bids were received and reviewed. After looking at these options and alternatives, and the decision that it is in the best interest of the City to give the citizens of Lawson the ballot option to sell the water and sewer.

The vote to sell the water and sewer to Missouri American Water (MOAW) was on November 7, 2017. The vote passed by over 90%.

The water and sewer transferred to MOAW on August 31, 2018. The City of Lawson received $4,000,000 for the sale of the utilities. After paying off all outstanding debt service on the water and sewer systems, the city had a net remainder of over $3,000,000.00. A portion of these funds are being used to accomplish the goals set by the community in the 2017 comprehensive plan. The Council has stipulated that these funds must save or make money for the community into the future.

Since the transfer, MOAW has made improvements to Lawson, MO water and sewer system and lagoon upgrades are in process.

MOAW guaranteed to keep the water and sewer rates for a minimum of 2 years. Their rates are set by the Public Service Commission, which will be substantially lower than what they would have been if the water was updated and retained by the City of Lawson.

City Profile

Lawson, Missouri

Lawson straddles the county line between Clay and Ray counties. The city's population has trended upwards growing from 2,060 in 1990 to 2,409 in 2015. As of 2016, the estimated population is 2,517, which would be the largest Lawson has ever been since it became a city. The city projects to continue to grow as more families move into the area.

Source: US Census Bureau

- As of July 1, 2016 the estimated population of Lawson was 2,517.
- Note: 2,517 would be the highest population in the history of Lawson.

Population by Age

- The median age of Lawson residents is 35.4, just slightly lower than the Clay County median of 36.5.
- Ray County's median is 40.7. However, the distribution by age is somewhat unique. Lawson has higher percentages of senior residents (7 percent are 80 and over).
- On the other end of the chart, Lawson has larger percentages of children under 5. This perhaps indicates that young families are starting out in Lawson.

History of Lawson, MO

In 1989, the City Council was wise enough to ask that the “History of Lawson”, that originally appeared in the 1965 Comprehensive Plan, be included in the 1989 version. The 2017 Council is equally as wise and have asked that that same history be part of the 2017 City of Lawson Comprehensive Plan.

An update has been created for 2020 with the progress that has been made within Lawson. Much of the 2017 data is still relevant and is included. The unchanged pages have been marked with “2017 data”.

HISTORY

The earlier history of the mid-continent Great Plains area dates back before the year 1500 when many Indian tribes, including the Osage, were believed to have lived near the Ohio River. Sometime prior to 1540 these tribes moved down the Ohio River valley and separated. Some, including the Omahas and Osage, traveled northward to the Missouri River and then along it to the mouth of the Osage River. Here, the Osage tribe remained while the Omahas and Poncas moved north, and the Kansas tribe followed the Missouri River to the mouth of the Kansas River. The City of Lawson, and the counties adjoining the Missouri River valley, were areas frequented by Indian tribes.

The earliest record of the white man to this general vicinity was an exploratory party headed by Sieur de Bourgmont, who in 1734 marched a troop of his men from Fort Orleans at the mouth of the Grand River and along the north side of the Missouri River and then crossing the river in their canoes to the Indian village of "Canzes", which was located near where downtown Kansas City is today.

The Louisiana Purchase was consummated between the United States and France in 1803, including the area which is now the State of Missouri. In 1812, the name of the territory was changed to that of Missouri.

In 1808, Fort Osage was established along the south bank of the Missouri River in Jackson County at the first white settlement in this general vicinity. A few years later, in 1821, a trading post was established by Francois Chouteau near the confluence of the Kansas and Missouri Rivers. This was also the year that Missouri was formally admitted into the Union.

In 1825, the Osage Indians relinquished their rights to the "Twenty-Four Mile Strip" adjoining the west edge of Missouri and extending south to Arkansas. For this land, plus all their remaining land in Missouri, Arkansas, and part of Kansas, the U. S. Government paid them $7,000 per year for seven years.

Howard County was originally organized in 1816 to include all of Missouri west of a line extending north from the mouth of the Osage River and all territory between the Missouri and Osage Rivers. Ray County was officially established in 1821, Clay County in 1822, and Clinton County in 1833. The location of Lawson in close proximity to the corner of Clay and Clinton Counties has given it the informal name of the "Three County Community".

The history of the City of Lawson predates its official founding in 1870. Its past is inextricably bound up in the early history of the "three county" area, which received its first migrants from Kentucky, Virginia, Tennessee, and North Carolina in 1822.

The earliest inhabitants settled primarily in the timberlands and near springs for water. As the timber was cut for log houses and fuel, the land was then tilled for crops. The earliest log houses had mud daubed in the cracks, stick chimneys, no windows, and no floors. no windows, and no floors.

Typical of the early frontier village, the churches came first, with schools and other town development later. Today, the City of Lawson is situated in the center of an area which produced several historic churches and villages.

The Union Church is located approximately five miles southeast of Lawson. It had its beginning in 1844. The old Salem Church, located approximately five miles south of Lawson, was dedicated in 1906, although its beginning was in the early 1840's. The New Hope Baptist Church, six miles west of Lawson, stems from a group which began in 1827. The Mt. Vernon Church, constructed in 1871, is now a part of the Watkins Mill State Park. Its group was organized in 1854, with Mr. Watkins as a charter member, and who later furnished two-thirds of the cost of the building.

The six neighboring communities which surrounded the present City of Lawson, include: (1) Lisbonville, located southeast of Elmira, (2) Pleasant View, a few miles northeast of Lawson, (3) Claysville, four miles south of Lawson, and west of the county line, (4) Greenville, three miles west of Claysville, (5) Barnesville, approximately four miles north of Lawson and west of the county line, and (6) Haynesville, five miles west of Lawson, and northwest of Holt. Today, Greenville, Barnesville, and Haynesville are still identified on the State Highway County maps, although very little of the original settlement remains, and the other three have virtually vanished.

Watkins Mill, then and now, occupies a unique place in the history of the City of Lawson. Waltus L. Watkins, a Kentuckian, came to Clay County in the late twenties or early thirties. During the late thirties and early forties he operated a saw mill and grist mill. At one time his land holdings extended all the way to the present site of Lawson, and beyond. In 1845, Mr. Watkins began building his permanent homestead. It was finished in 1851. In 1852 he built the octagonal shaped, two room, brick school house. In 1859 he began construction of the three story brick woolen mill, the first of its kind west of the Mississippi. All of the foregoing construction was by slave labor, but experienced mill hands were brought from the woolen mills of Philadelphia. The mill was in full operation in 1863, and continued to operate until the middle eighteen nineties by the three Watkins sons, following their father's death in 1884.

The present townsite of the City of Lawson was purchased by Benjamin Elston in 1864 from Waltus Watkins. This eighty-acre tract was purchased by Josephe Raum in 1870. A few months later he sold forty acres to the St. Joseph Land Co., which had the same directors as the St. Joseph Railroad Co. which was constructing a line from St. Joseph to a point in southern Ray County, across the river from Lexington. It is further reported that work was begun immediately for a railroad depot* even before the streets were laid out.

The new town was to be called Doniphan, until it was discovered that another community had utilized that name. Therefore, the name Lawson was a second choice in honor of the president of the new railroad line, and a former St. Joe citizen who had become a member of the Donnell, Lawson and Company banking firm of New York. When it was later found that this name, too, had been preempted, the name Lawson Station was selected. Later, when the other community decided to change its name, the word "Station" was dropped.

Mr. George Young was the first to open a business establishment. His stock of merchandise included paints, oils, notions, and groceries. Also, in 1870, Robert J. Clark and J.T. Hurt of Claysville built a general store on the present site of the Lawson Bank. Mr. Clark also became Lawson's first postmaster from 1870 to 1881.

Incorporation procedures for the City of Lawson were completed in 1871. The exact date is unknown because of a fire which destroyed all City records in 1914.

The town park was given to the City of Lawson by the Land Company, as noted in the following excerpt from the abstract:

"The Saint Joseph Land company here declares that it is the sole owner and proprietor of the Town of Lawson (except specific lots disposed of as stated in various deeds, with each of which a map is given designating such area) and that said Town was laid out by said company and including what was appropriated for right of way by said railway purposes, which excepting the right of way grounds aforesaid was subdivided into public square and lots blocks bounded by streets and alleys."

In 1887, the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul & Pacific Railroad constructed its line through the City of Lawson.

The Methodists and Presbyterians were the first to build a house of worship, which they jointly shared for several years. The Masonic Lodge was the first of the fraternal and civic organizations to organize in 1870.

The first School District was organized in 1871, immediately after the town was incorporated. In 1883 a two story, three room brick school building was erected on the present administrative office site, two additional rooms were added in 1905. The present school building was constructed in 1915. In 1921 the District was expanded by adding East Fork and part of Riggs District, and adopting the Junior-Senior High School Plan. Free text books were voted in 1931. A small Negro school was also in operation during the early years, ranging in attendance from eight to twenty five, but it ceased in 1906. School busses were added by the Lawson School District in 1937, and a few years later the district boundaries were expanded under a state wide redistricting program to include practically all of the area previously referred to in this historical narrative.

In the late eighties, plans were being made to locate an institution of higher learning in this general area. Many Lawson citizens worked hard for its location to be in this City, but the final location for the Woodson Institute was the City of Richmond. However, local interest continued and the Lawson Presbyterian Academy was organized in 1891. A new college building was constructed immediately north of the elementary school site in 1898, but it was destroyed by fire the same year.

In 1873 a group of citizens organized the Lawson Cemetery Company. The original two acres has since been expanded. This company was incorporated in 1930 and continues to operate this facility.

The Lawson Bank was established in 1883, the oldest existing bank in Ray County.

The next oldest business firm is the Morrow & Sons, Lumber, Hardware and Building Supplies. It was originally established by J. M. Morrow in 1888.

The Lawson District Fair, organized in 1886, was a major event for more than a decade, with a wide variety of events and exhibits.

Since 1902, the Lawson Picnic, originally sponsored by the Odd Fellows and the Modern Woodmen, has been a major annual event. As the years went on it grew and grew, and both railroads put on special trains to bring the crowds here from all of the surrounding counties. In 1922, it was reported that there were two thousand cars in Lawson, and the crowd estimated at five thousand. This celebration has traditionally been held in the Rhodus Grove, west of town, or in the city park.

The Lawson Gazette was first published in 1881. In 1889, W. L. Bales purchased the paper and changed its name to The Lawson Journal. The paper changed hands again in this general period, and another paper started titled The Lawson Leader. These two were soon combined as The Ray County Review. In 1916 the paper was purchased by Sam Halstead, who changed its name to The Lawson Review, which continues to this day and is the oldest newspaper in Ray County.

The Missouri Valley Fox Hunt Association was formed in 1906 "to revive memories of a time when the woods and prairies of this Missouri region abounded with fox, the wolf, and other species of wild life. " It died out in the Great Depression years of the early thirties, but the record indicates that crowds of five thousand were frequently in attendance.

In 1931, the Rock Island Railroad constructed its line through the City of Lawson, and U. S. Highway No. 69 was built one mile west of town.

In 1949 the Elmira Coal Mine was closed.

In 1952 the City voted a bond issue for a new water system. More recently a bond issue has provided for a complete sanitary sewer system. These facilities were completed in 1964.

The installation of a Nike Base one mile east of town in the late fifties adds a significant relationship to the community, as does the acceptance of the Watkins Mill estate into the State Park system in recent years.

The current rebuilding of State Highway D connecting to U. S. Highway No, 69, plus the construction of the Interstate Freeway six miles to the west are all significant factors which will affect the potential growth and development of the City of Lawson.

Although the City of Lawson today is a small community of approximately one thousand population, its past has been varied and colorful, and its future in good measure will depend upon what its citizens and civic leaders want to make of it.

The City of Lawson remains a small community, however, it has shown a high rate of growth over the last forty years, increasing from 486 in 1950 to an estimated 2362 in 1989.

The Nike Base, located near the city, has been abandoned and no longer affects the community as a missile base complex. The small industrial plant operating in the building has a minimal effect on the economy of the area. The Watkins Mill State Park is constantly growing and increasing in popularity resulting in a positive effect to the community.
